Greg,

I apologize if this information is late coming for your meeting purposes, but I wanted to respond to your questions in case it is still needed. I obtained a briefing from Terry Dedon.

The three ORW/relief wells have been drilled. Of the three, one has been logged, capped and shut in for 24 hours. They plan to begin venting tomorrow. The second well is still being and they plan to have it complete tonight. The third well has not been logged yet, and plan to start washing tonight.

As for the clean-up, as of Saturday, twenty 20-yard trucks of oily/vegetative debris have been shipped off-site. The oily/veg debris is going to BFI Colonial in Sorrento. Ten more trucks have been loaded since Saturday and have either been shipped off or are staged on-site. All liquid that has been vacuumed as of yesterday remains on-site. Debris removal activities ceased at 8:30 this morning when another sloughing occurred. Liquid removal is still being conducted.

I hope this answers your questions. If you need further information or clarification of this information, please contact Terry Dedon who is currently the on-site representative for DEQ at 225-324-2995. I remain the Point of Contact for this incident and can be reached at 225-936-8832 for future needs

The bosses have called a series of meetings on Bayou Corne today. Could one of you find out from LDEQ the status of the RELIEF wells, in particular, the one planned to go in between the sinkhole and the community. And find out the status of the debris cleanup, at least get the quantity of how many trucks have been hauled off.

Thanks. I'm in other meetings until the BC meetings but call me if you need to.
